

Costs of Common Ground Programs: Fall 2011 – Spring 2012

Professional Research Programs organized by Common Ground cost between $2100 and $2500, depending on number of participants (minimum of 8 required for any trip), length of trip, double or single room occupancy and whether the trip involves collaboration with an expert in the field as trip leader. Trips in collaboration with the Center for Cuban Studies include a one-year membership at the Center and a $200 tax deductible donation.

All programs include RT airfare from Florida to Cuba, medical/evacuation insurance through flight company, accommodations at quality 3* and 4* hotels with private bath and climate control; breakfast daily plus 2 special dinners and 1 lunch; transportation by dedicated air conditioned bus; domestic flights within Cuba if required by program; service of a permanently assigned English speaking guide; additional translator where required by the program; appropriate entry visa for Cuba, including for those born in Cuba; program of activities organized by specialists in accordance with the research parameters of the trip; on the ground assistance from Common Ground throughout the length of the trip.
